

Which ESL Program is right for your church?

Conversation Groups

Hosting a conversation group is a great way to start an ESL program in your church. You can have more structured, theme-based groups, or you can simply meet for coffee and get to know one another while allowing people to practice their English.

Formal ESL Classes

Having a structured ESL class requires a qualified facilitator who can choose and deliver appropriate curriculum. Planning is essential if you are thinking of offering structured ESL classes.

Bible Studies

Many newcomers to Canada are also new to the Bible and may be interested in learning about the Christian faith. Bible studies are a safe way for newcomers to explore their beliefs, gain spiritual support through friends and, of course, learn new English vocabulary.

Other ESL Options

Drop-in craft, baking, cooking, or exercise class options are a great way to offer students conversation practice in a friendly, relaxed environment while they learn a new skill.

The program that is best for your church depends on many different factors, including facilitators' experience, resources available and goals. One program is not better than another, just different. Be sure to consider all your options before deciding. Our goal is to support and encourage you in whichever program is your best fit.
